

BOMB THREATS

As soon as a bomb threat is reported to the administration, a determination of the threat's credibility will be made. Depending on the nature and credibility of the threat, a decision will be made whether to continue classes and business as normal, clear a portion of the building, or evacuate the entire school district facility. In all cases where a bomb threat is made, appropriate school district or law enforcement officials will conduct a thorough search. If a decision is made to clear any portion of a school district facility, students and employees not involved in the search will remain outside of the cleared area until the search is completed.

It is the responsibility of the superintendent to file a report or keep a report of each incident for the school district records.
